STARBASE Salina 2.0 Robotics Competition 2022

STARBASE Salina partnered with two local middle schools sponsoring after school robotics clubs. Lakewood Middle School and students from Sacred Heart Senior High began working with EV3 robots in January of this year to prepare for the Western Kansas Lego Robotics Competition which was held on April 4, 2022 at Fort Hays University in Hays, Kansas. Eighteen schools were present with 204 participants competing. STARBASE students worked in pairs to complete at least two of the competition's events.

The events involved higher level thinking and coding skills using sensors, measurement, and custom robot configurations. Students could choose to compete in the Mountain Climber Challenge, where the task had to locate a 3-inch red circle on a white playing field that was placed in an unknown area where the fastest time would win the challenge. The Roadblock Challenge proved to be one of the most difficult events as the bots were required to navigate through a maze containing three roadblocks at unknown locations. Even though this challenge was solved at each school's location, the variations between the practice boards and the ones at the competition provided too much variance for a successful outcome.

A new following challenge called Time Trial Retriever involved not only programming the bot to follow a black line but to also capture a plastic cup at the end of the curved line and return it to the starting location with the fastest time. The Mountain Climber challenged bots to climb a 60-inch ramp set at a 45-degree angle and descend the ramp on the other side to the bottom of the freestair.

One STARBASE team successfully made it up the ramp and over the top but failed to land in the red zone at the bottom. The highlight of the day was the Sumo Bot battle which was conducted using single elimination brackets. Many STARBASE teams made it past the first elimination bracket with two teams continuing into the semi-finals. Students from both schools expressed that the after school robotics club was a positive experience enabling them to learn a variety of new skills using teamwork. From configuring the robot to gear ratios and advanced coding details, students learned that perseverance pays off.
